

The Patient-Centered Medical Home & You: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) for Patients and Families

What is a Patient-Centered Medical Home?

A Medical Home is all about you and the care of your children. Caring about your child is the most important job of your Patient Centered Medical Home. In this personal model of health care, your child's primary care provider leads a team of health care professionals that collectively take responsibility for your child's care. They make sure your child gets the care they need in wellness and illness to heal their body, mind and spirit.

Your child's personal provider and an extended team of health professionals build a relationship in which they know you, your family situation, your child's medical history and health issues. In turn, you come to trust and rely on them for expert, evidence-based health care answers that are suited entirely to your child or to your family.

How will a Medical Home lead to better care for my child?

There are many benefits to being in a Medical Home:

- Comprehensive care means your child's medical home helps you address any health issue at any given stage of your child's life
- Coordination of care occurs when any combination of services you and your provider decide your child may need are connected and ordered in a rational way, including the use of resources in your community
- Continuous care occurs over time, and you can expect continuity in accurate, effective and timely communication from any member of the healthcare team
- Accessible care allows you to initiate the interaction your child may need for any health issue with a physician or other team member through your desired method (office visit, phone call, or electronically) and you can expect elimination of barriers to the access of care and instructions on obtaining care during and after hours.
- Proactive care ensures you and your child's provider will build a care plan to address the healthcare goals to keep your child well, plus be available for them when they get sick.
- Evidence based care means that your child's care team keeps up to date with the latest medical research and clinical practice guidelines and will work with you to personalize the care to fit your preferences and your goals.
